Knox United Church Harvest Home Service

Harvest Home service was held in Knox United Church, Didsbury, on Sunday evening, when the church was beautifully decorated with various fruits of the season. Rev. A. E. Hayes, the pastor, preached the sermon and the choir provided special music.

On Monday evening the Ladies' Aid held a very successful harvest home supper to which about 250 people sat down.

After supper the church was crowded. A short musical program was given by the members of the choir assisted by Mr. Alec Robertson of Westcott, which preceded a lecture given by Rev. Dr. Dickson of Calgary.

Dr. Dickson, who is one of the outstanding speakers in the Province, took for his subject, "Plain Living and High Thinking."

Both the program and lecture were thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

Initial payment on wheat has been cut from 60 cents per bushel to 55 cents, according to announcement today by the Canadian Wheat Pool. Fifty-five cents is to be the payment on No. 1 Northern, basis Fort William, effective today, until further notice.

No statement accompanied the announcement, officials of the general selling agency, remarking that no comment was required when the market prices on completely demoralized world markets were so close to the pools initial payment.

More Jerseys Are Unloaded Here

On Sunday, October 12th, the fifth carload of purebred Jersey cattle was unloaded at Didsbury. This load consisted of 25 head of junior heifers, and was in charge of John Dunham, herdsman from the Wai-kiki Dairy, Spokane. Reid Clarke was in charge of the unloading, and Joe Tabert hauled them west to Norman Clarke's farm.

On Thursday last, there were two well-known farmers, W. J. Atchison the Yorkshire hog man, and C. A. Gardner, of Cayley, Alberta, looking over the purebred Jerseys at Didsbury. Mr. Atchison selected 6 head of young heifers, which he intends to have shipped to Cayley.

On Sunday, a carload of farmers visited Didsbury, from Stettler, Alberta. They picked out 7 head of heifers from those that had just arrived that day, and said that they would send a written order for them on Monday morning. Mr. W. Street, one of the Stettler men, also selected Pilot's Favorite, a senior yearling, which he ordered on Monday.

Didsbury has long been known as one of the finest mixed farming districts in Alberta. During the past season, Norman Clarke's purebred Jersey cows have attracted attention from all parts of the province.

Miss D. G. Amburg, teacher of Grand Centre School, spent the week-end at her home in Calgary.

Obituary.

The death of Mrs. Bernice Watson, wife of Mr. Allister M. Watson of the Royal Bank, Bowden, occurred early Wednesday morning, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Jas. McMow, in Didsbury. Up to going to press, arrangements for the funeral had not yet been made.

It is with regret that we record the death of Mrs. Sarah Leadbetter, wife of Mr. W. Leadbetter, who died at the Holy Cross Hospital, Calgary, on Saturday.

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon, from the Pro Cathedral, with Rev. H. Clay, of Hannah, officiating.

Interment was made in Burnsland cemetery, Calgary, and the last rites at the graveside were performed by members of the Didsbury Chapter of the Eastern Star.

The late Mrs. Leadbetter, who was 60 years of age, was born in Burton-on-Trent, England, and was a past president, and past worthy matron of St. Hilda's Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, St. Cyprian's W.A.

She is survived by her husband, Mr. W. Leadbetter, four sons, Harold G. and Wilfred H. Sanders, of Calgary, Reginald H. Sanders, and W. E. Leadbetter, of Alameda, California, one daughter, Millicent Leadbetter, of Calgary, two sisters, Mrs. J. F. Bennett, of Calgary, and Mrs. Wells, of England, and one brother in England.

Misfortune again visited the home of Mrs. R. E. Mosley, who lives 8 miles east of town, on Monday morning, when her eldest son, Jimmy, died from the results of a kick by a horse.

The boy, who was 13 years old, received injury on Monday of last week, when hitching a team to the disc. He was brought to Didsbury Hospital, where he lingered until early on Monday morning, and passed away.

The boy's father, Mr. Reuben E. Mosley was killed by lightning, last July, when the house was struck and destroyed.

Jimmy leaves his mother, two brothers and two sisters to mourn his loss.

The sincere sympathy of the whole community is extended to the bereaved mother in her great misfortune.

The funeral service was held in Knox United Church, and was attended by a large number of friends and neighbors. The numerous floral offerings sent, were a tribute to the esteem in which the family is held in the community.

Interment was made in Didsbury cemetery.

WEDDINGS

LUTZ-STEIN

A quiet, but very interesting wedding took place in the Didsbury Evangelical parsonage last Monday, October 13th, at high noon, when Mr. Christian Lutz, and Miss Katherine Stein, both of Innisfail, were united in the bonds of holy wedlock, Rev. H. E. Roppel officiating. By special request of the groom's parents, the ceremony was performed in the German language.

The bride was charmingly gowned in brocade satin, and wore a veil and flowers to match. The young couple are said to be of Innisfail's most popular and progressive rural folks. They were accompanied by a bridal party, numbering six, representing only their immediate relatives residing at Innisfail. Mr. and Mrs. Lutz will take up their residence on a farm, 12 miles east of Innisfail.

A meeting of the Didsbury Hockey Club will be held in C. E. Reiber's office on Monday evening next, at 8 p.m. All those interested, are invited to attend.

Empty Hours

William Lyon Phelps, professor of English literature at Yale University, has a thought-arresting article in one of the big United States magazines. He considers the character-revealing value of our leisure hours and the need of observing what we do with them if we are to have a real understanding of one another.

What does the average person do with his leisure? he asks. For, "except in the rare instances of creative work, it is leisure alone that reveals or betrays the man." Dr. Phelps goes even so far as to say that "the use of leisure eventually determines the fate of an entire community, or of an entire nation." He cites the fate of the Roman Empire, "destroyed, first, by too much leisure, second by the wrong use of it."

Throughout America nearly everybody works, if they can obtain employment, but the signs of the times seem certainly to indicate the coming of more leisure. Will the increased hours of leisure be empty or filled? And, if filled, what will be the character of their filling?

The writer, as a boy, worked ten hours a day, six days a week, at manual labor in a factory. There was little time for leisure, but he gained a portion of his education by snatching a couple of hours of study in the evenings. The 10-hour working day has passed. It faded away before organized labor's demand for "eight hours to work, eight hours to sleep, eight hours to do with as you like."

Now the 8-hour working day is gradually going into the discard. The growing demand of organized labor is for a 6-hour day and a five-day working week. It is contended that in this machine age, with the many mechanical marvels of today, one man, working much shorter hours, can produce more than it was possible for several men working longer hours to produce even a few short years ago. And it is true. And this development is given as one of the main causes of unemployment today. Hence, considerable force attaches to the demand for a shorter working day and fewer working days in order, if for no other reason, to provide work for a larger number of persons. Even on the farm, modern machinery is reducing the required number of hours and days of labor, and, consequently, in the number of men employed.

All this means increased hours of leisure. What are we going to do with them? Have you ever stopped to check up just what you now do with your leisure? "The real business of life is Life." Men and women live in their minds. If leisure means laziness, if leisure means only bodily pleasures, if leisure means only attendance at games and sentimental pictures, the mind stagnates and leisure becomes a detriment not an advantage, a curse rather than a blessing.

On the other hand if, by education and the increase of refinement, as Dr. Phelps says, men and women will make a profitable use of their increased leisure, the coming generations will be more civilized and more happy than at any previous period in their history.

It is within the compass of every person to become a "personality," to be in some degree different from others. The process is a mental one; the product the outgrowth of how the leisure hours are spent.

The happiest people, concludes Dr. Phelps, "are those who think the most interesting thoughts. Interesting thoughts live only in cultivated minds. Those who decide to use leisure as a means of mental development, who love good music, good books, good pictures, good plays at the theatre, good company, good conversation—what are they? They are the happiest people in the world; they are not only happy in themselves, they are the cause of happiness in others."

Telephones In Australia

3,000 Miles

The Australian telephone and telegraph system, operated by the Commonwealth Postal Department, is being rapidly extended and within a few weeks it will be possible for Sydney people to speak to Perth by direct wire, a distance of more than 3,000 miles. A commercial radio telephone service between London, England, and any Australian capital is now in operation, and within a few months the Commonwealth Government intends to establish a similar service between the Island State of Tasmania and the other states of the Commonwealth.

Reduce the Acid

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

A Remarkable Feat

Conversation From Airplane In Flight Covered Fourteen Thousand Miles

From an aeroplane 5,000 feet over Buenos Aires, Captain Lewis Yancey recently talked by radiophone with Sydney, Australia, thus telephoning from an aeroplane in flight over a distance of 14,000 miles, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. His conversation went by radio to a radiotelephone station in Buenos Aires, then by radio to Madrid. At Madrid the conversation was transferred to land lines of a telephone company which took it to the French border, where it was transferred again to other land lines and carried to the English Channel. A submarine cable took it to England, then other land lines carried the words to a radiotelephone station at Rugby. From Rugby the beam wireless carried the words to Sydney. The conversation was quite distinct.—Moose Jaw Evening Times.

Hard On the Engineers

Nerves Are On Edge Wondering What Motorist Is Going To Do

Is it surprising that a large proportion of railway locomotive engineers are "jumpy?" Can it be wondered at that the nerves of the average engineer and fireman are not nearly as steady as they were when motorists exercised greater caution when approaching level crossings?

So often the engineer, or his mate, on the other side of the cab, are kept in suspense as to the intention of the motorist—whether the person handling a car is aware of the approach of the train, and if he or she intends to stop the machine at a safe distance from the danger line.

One of the worst types, an experienced railway man tells us, is the motorist, travelling at a high rate of speed or at a lively clip, who does not give any indication that he proposes to slow up until he is dangerously close to the crossing, depending too much upon his brakes. More insane even is the driver who takes the chance of rushing across in front of the train.

Railway engineers and firemen urge that, if motorists of the kind mentioned, and others, none too cautious, have no regard for their own safety and that of others with them, then "have a heart" for the nerves of those operating trains.

Painless and perfect in their action, Miller's Worm Powders are always a safe and reliable remedy for children who show symptoms of worms. These symptoms are easily recognizable in a feverish restlessness, frequently ending in convulsions. A point of notable importance is that after Miller's Worm Powders have expelled the worms, the stomach and bowels are toned up into a very healthy condition.

Moderns are largely forgetting how to walk. There are constantly fewer places where easy and comfortable transportation is not available. There is no incentive to walk, and we are losing the habit.

Development Work Commences On Townsite Of Churchill, Western Canada's New Seaport

Development of the townsite at Churchill, Canada's newest seaport, on Hudson Bay, terminus of the Hudson Bay Railway, is expected to start next spring. Churchill is about 1,000 miles from Winnipeg. The new line to the seaboard runs from Hudson Bay Junction on the Winnipeg-Prince Albert line of the Canadian National Railways, via The Pas, Manitoba. From Hudson Bay Junction to Churchill is 600 miles. The Hudson Bay Railway was built by the Canadian National Railways.

The entire townsite at Churchill is owned by the Province of Manitoba and it is to be developed along modern town planning lines. No property will be sold, but, instead there will be long term leases subject to reasonable revision at stated periods, such as every three or five years.

Engineers are now at Churchill working out plans for water works, water mains and sewerage lines. The town plan will specify locations of public buildings, schools, churches, railway station, hotels, business streets, residential section and recreation grounds. Adequate surveys will be made this year. A compact settlement is planned with the initial residential construction possibly in the form of apartment houses, heated by a central plant that would also furnish heat for business blocks and public buildings. Settlement will adhere to a carefully devised town planning scheme with proper safeguards made for future development and attention given to recreational facilities.

Many applications from those who wish to establish business houses of all descriptions at the new seaport are being received by the Manitoba Government. Three or four hotels and restaurants and a lumber yard will mark the initial construction at Churchill and work on these will probably start in October, when the survey will, it is expected, have been completed.

Bringing Crop Up-To-Date

Dominion Cerealist Is Changing Grain Of Field Peas For Feed

Field crops, like styles, have to keep abreast of the times. L. H. Newman, Dominion Cerealist, is always on the lookout for something new and useful in the line of field crops for the Canadian farmer; sometimes he makes new crops, and frequently he brings them up-to-date—this is what he is doing with the humble pea. Peas are a crop possessing high protein feed values, but one which at the present time is difficult to handle, and often uneconomical because of loss due to break up in machine handling and the excessive cost of harvest labor. By changing the grain of the pea and making it stronger, Mr. Newman expects to produce a pea which, while retaining the desirable protein qualities of present varieties, will be strong enough to permit of harvesting with the use of the binder. In modernizing the pea the Dominion Cerealist is in fact changing a crop.

Blinded Birds Used As Decoys

Italian Peasants Have Inhuman Method Of Obtaining Food

Swallows, sparrows, skylarks, finches and many other small song birds form the chief meat diet of the peasantry of Italy, according to Dr. Gilbert T. Pearson, well-known bird protectionist, who addressed the opening session of the convention of the International Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissioners at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto. The birds are lured into nets or pools of glue by living decoys or painted imitations. The living decoys are usually birds that have been blinded with red-hot needles, to make them sing. Hidden in cages under thickets, they repeat incessantly, automatically, their monotonous call. They cannot stop. They go on calling out night and day until they die.

Facts About Empire Marketing

Denmark Leads In Giving Attention To Quality Of Exports

Referring to the problem of Empire marketing of agricultural products, it was stated that the Empire Marketing Board in London, England, was doing excellent work. Denmark, be it noted, is probably the most highly organized agricultural country in the world with respect to the marketing of its agricultural products. "One lesson which Canada must learn from her if we are to play a big part in the world's markets, is to meet in every possible detail their exacting demands. Denmark gives attention to every peculiarity of the markets she seeks to serve, which are chiefly in Britain, and nothing is permitted to go out of the country that is not of top notch quality. Danish agriculture is remarkable for this fact, for its uniformity of products of all kinds, and above all, for the marvellous system of marketing which has been built up, through which the farmers are enabled to obtain returns fully ten per cent. higher than they otherwise would. Through an equally fine system of purchasing, the farmers are enabled to buy their supplies cheaper than otherwise would be the case. Canada has another lesson to learn and that is to take more account in the future of other wheat growing countries and their possible competition. We are so accustomed to think that because we export a vast amount of wheat, we are one of the biggest wheat producers. France and Germany both produce an immense amount of wheat, much of which came into competition with ours last year, and Russia is again rapidly getting back into production and will be a big factor soon in the world markets."

Silos For the West

Many Farmers Are Alive To the Advantage Of Using Them

The silo is a valuable means for storing feed for winter use or to supplement the pastures in spring and fall. By properly packing it, particularly at the edges, when filling, and by removing six inches per day, a succulent nutritious feed is available for all classes of stock at all seasons of the year, with very little waste.

Silage has certain laxative properties which keep the digestive organs of animals in good condition. Animals receiving some kind of succulent feed have keener appetites, softer and more pliable skins, and a more thrifty, more healthy appearance than those fed exclusively on dry rations.

Each year is marked by the erection of a few more silos in the prairie provinces, but unfortunately the number is not as large as is warranted by the success which attends their use. At the Dominion experimental station, Lacombe, Alberta, three general types of silos, the above-ground, the pit, and the trench, have been used for a number of years with such excellent results, that we have no hesitation in recommending them to anyone keeping a number of live stock.

If you are not envied you haven't accomplished much.

Canadian Railway Trains Make Faster Time Than Any Other Trains in the World

A Profitable Investment

Beautifying the Farm Home Will Greatly Add To Its Value

Every unimproved or unplanted home in Canada can be made more attractive and more valuable by the planting of trees, shrubs, vines and flowers, and a well-kept lawn. The cost of the nursery stock required is one of the most profitable investments a farmer can possibly make, because such improvements will actually increase the money value of the place by many times the amount spent in a simple plan of home planting. It will make it more valuable as a home and it will certainly command a better price if put up for sale. It is surprising how a few improvements will turn a mere house into a real home. In addition to its increased monetary value the attractive farm home goes a long way in holding the family together; in keeping the young people on the farm. They will love their home and be proud to bring in their friends.

Some may say that it costs too much or that it takes too much time to care for flowers and shrubs. It is, however, more a matter of disposition than of time or money. The farmer who is disposed to have flowers and attractive home surroundings will have them, no matter how busy he may be. Canadian farms should be more than just farms, they should be homes in the country.

Canada Is Exporting Rabbits To Japan

British Columbia Agency Has Big Contract For Three Years

Angora rabbits raised and bred in British Columbia are finding a ready and lucrative market in Japan and large numbers of them are being shipped on almost every outgoing steamship for the Far East. One agency alone has a contract to supply a thousand rabbits a year for three years to the Japanese market.

In Japan they raise rabbits for wool and not for meat, it is explained by J. Kumakhaya, manager of the Consolidated Farmers Co-Operative Association, who has been supervising the shipments from British Columbia.

"We plan to furnish every farmer in Japan with at least five rabbits," said Mr. Kumakhaya. "We already have provided the machinery for handling the wool in all manufacturing stages."

The Japanese importers find that Canadian rabbits are superior to those raised in the Western United States, which were previously a source of supply. The cooler summers tend to produce harder stock and better conditioned fur, and as a result Japan has turned to British Columbia for the foundation of its rabbit industry.

Roadside stands in the United States now do a business amounting to more than $500,000,000 a year.

MAKES GOOD-WILL AIR TRIP

The photograph above shows Ruth Alexander, noted aviatrix and holder of altitude record for women, just prior to taking off from Agua Caliente race track, Baja, California, on her "Three Flag" good-will non-stop border-to-border dash from Mexico to Vancouver and return, which she has just successfully completed. Note her toy pup, "Maryland," official mascot on the trip.

Canadians who talk about the fast United States trains to the disparagement of their own, will some day realize that for speed on main lines, the Canadian trains not only push Uncle Sam's fastest far into the background, but that two Canadian trains make faster time than any other road in the world, for the distance, says a Montreal Star news writer.

No train in the world runs as fast for the distance as the Canadian National six-hour train from Montreal to Toronto. It covers the first part, 126 miles, in two hours, or an average of 63 miles per hour. Even the much-vaunted Flying Scotsman and the Royal Scot, in England, over tracks that only Old Country railways can provide, would watch the tail-lights of Canada's crack flyer disappear.

Many people think the New York-Chicago trains are the swiftest on the continent. They make the run from the two points in 20 hours, or at a rate of about 50 miles an hour. When one considers that these trains charge $10 extra fare, have no day coaches, and enjoy the richest clientele in the world, American trains do not appear to have the best of it after all.

The Trans-Canada Limited, over the C.P.R., is the fastest train in America from coast to coast. It averages a little better than 33 miles an hour, when everything is considered. That means, the passenger, from the time he gets in at Montreal, till he gets off at the wharfside in Vancouver, would average that time. But the Trans-Canada loses 4 hours and 12 minutes, in scheduled stops at divisional points, thus making the run about a 35-mile an hour one. When one considers the climb over two heights of land in New Ontario, and the terrific grades in the Rockies, it gives some idea of what this de luxe train must contend with. The American rivals to it do not fare any better on their averages.

In the United States, the Congressional Limited, Washington to New York over the Pennsylvania, makes the 266 miles at around 52 miles an hour. But this is over one of the greatest tracks in America, if not in the world, and it traverses very level country. But the Missouri Pacific's Sunshine Limited, St. Louis to Little Rock, makes 44 miles an hour, and slows down under 40 beyond the Arkansas capital. The Overland Limited, all-Pullman extra fare train, over the Chicago and Northwestern, from Chicago to Omaha, on the California run, takes extra cash from the customers for making 43 miles an hour.

The Crescent Limited, New York to New Orleans, that has showers on board, paints its engines green, employs special coach decoration and charges extra fare, makes the 333.7 miles between Washington and Salisbury, North Carolina, in 8 hours and 50 minutes. Compare this with the International Limited's 330.4 miles in six hours, or the regular trains doing it from seven and a half hours to seven hours and 45 minutes. And day coach passengers can ride on those Canadian trains, while on the southern railway, they must take slower trains.

RURAL HIGH SCHOOLProblem of Secondary Education for Rural Children Being Well Handled

Earning a livelihood is not today the simple matter that it was a generation or more ago. Secondary education is being demanded in an ever-growing number of occupations. It is admittedly an advantage in entering almost any line of work. But coincident with this general condition is the fact that most city and town high schools are becoming overcrowded. They are restricting attendance to ratepayers in their own districts, and the rural child is called upon to pay higher tuition fees. The problem of furnishing the rural child with high school education is complex. It means that he must leave home at an early age to board in town or city. His board and tuition are a considerable expense, outside of the fact that he is removed from home over sight.

Numbers of rural districts in Alberta have met this difficulty by establishing rural high schools. This relieves the congestion in city and town schools, and permits the student to remain at home while receiving secondary training.

The arrangement is not left to one school district, but is a consolidation of two or more districts, with the rural high school situated centrally. In order to secure the government grant of $4 per day there must be an average attendance of fifteen pupils. The government also provides a share of science equipment for these schools.

There may be one or more teachers and the pupils admitted are those who have completed Grades VII, or VIII. The grades taught are VIII, IX, X and XI.

There are fifteen of these schools operating in Alberta and others forming. They are mainly in the northern part of the province as yet, but are demonstrating their usefulness in no uncertain way.

A school of this type calls for a gross expenditure of about $2,400, if it is a one room, one teacher, building. With the government paying one third, the average cost runs about $5 per quarter section.

The results of these schools, academically, appears to be excellent, and it is obvious that many country children would not otherwise receive secondary training. The children remain in their own homes under parental control and are old enough to see to their own transportation.

They secure certificates up to Grade XI, without exorbitant cost to the district or to the parents.

Hundreds of Albertans enjoy steady employment throughout the year in the brewing, storing, transporting, of the products of the five great modern breweries of Alberta.

Alberta Brewery Products are served by the bottle or glass at hotels. Sold by the barrel or case from our warehouses.

Town Planning In Alberta

Being a Series of Short Articles Explanatory of the Provisions Of The Alberta Town Planning Act, and Regulations Thereunder.

By
HORACE L. SEYMOUR,
Provincial Director of Town Planning.

Article 7.
Farmstead Planning.

The term "farmstead" is used to include that part of the farm that takes in the home and its grounds, barnyard and buildings. Planning for such an area has become an important part of the work of the Provincial Town Planning Office; over fifty inspections or surveys were made in 1929, with assistance from one of the district agriculturists of the province.

General principles of farmstead planning are illustrated with typical diagrams, and include such matters as placing and grouping of buildings, sanitation, and planting of trees, shrubs, and flowers, plans that might take several years to become fully effective, but ones that can be worked to.

Individual plans are prepared for particular locations, where, as a rule, some permanent buildings have already been erected, and the suggested lay-out is consequently influenced thereby.

Those who wish to procure trees for shelter-belts, or windbreaks, free of cost, should communicate with Mr. Norman E. Ross, Dominion Government Forest Nursery Station, Indian Head, Saskatchewan, before the 1st of March, in the year preceding that in which they wish to plant. As supplied, poplars and willows are cuttings, maple, ash, and caragana are seedlings. For conifers and evergreens, such as Scotch pine or white spruce, there is a charge of $3.00 per hundred, together with the usual express or freight charges.

There is no charge for provincial planning service, and those farmers interested, should communicate with the Director of Town Planning, Parliament Buildings, Edmonton. Surveys of individual farms will be made, and plans subsequently prepared as soon as practicable.

FASCINATING LINKS IN CANADA'S HISTORY

In striking contrast to the travelling facilities of today with our fast expresses and modern bus lines, is the stage coach of only a hundred years ago, when it took a whole day to make a journey which we now make in a couple of hours. With the advent of air travelling these journeys are being shortened day by day so that in time our now up-to-date time tables may be items of great historic interest.

In the Dominion archives at Ottawa is a greatly valued poster with the heading "Mail Stages Leaving Sweetsburg" in large letters. Sweetsburg is today a thriving little town in the Eastern Townships, about 60 miles from Montreal on the Boston highway, and only one mile from Cowansville, a busy industrial town. According to the poster Mr. A. Pickle was the proprietor and Mr. George Beals was the owner of the St. Albans line. The descendants of these enterprising gentlemen are still living in the district. The poster was printed by the Democratic Print, of St. Albans, Vermont, on May 15, 1860, and announces that stages leave Sweetsburg daily, except Sunday, for West Farnham, Knowlton, St. Albans and Richford, and on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays for Waterloo, and on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays for Granby.

The coaches all left between the hours of two and six in the morning and returned the same evenings, often probably only in time to start out on the next day's trip. The condition of the roads in those days will leave a good deal to the imagination, while the roads through that same district today are splendid and fast travelling is quite possible in spite of the fact that they are all very winding and have many ups and downs.

Arthur Beauvais, well-known Indian guide at the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec City, owes much of his popularity among visitors to the hostelry to the team of huskies that mush them out on snowed trips in the winter. Show held recently. He took no particular trouble in beautifying him for the occasion and accordingly was gratified to learn that he had taken three first prizes and one special prize. Report On Immigration

Saskatchewan Commission Submits Its Report On Immigration Matters

While some inflow of immigration must be permitted "if we are to maintain a biologically and economically sound condition of rural population," such immigration must be under strict control, effective checks and proper safeguards, provincial as well as federal.

This statement is the keynote of the report of the Saskatchewan Royal Commission on Immigration and Settlement submitted by Premier J. T. M. Anderson, and by him released for publication, Thursday, September 18.

Because the "reserves of unutilized land suitable for settlement in Saskatchewan are much less than is often assumed to be the case," the Commission argues that restriction of immigration rather than its promotion is essential at the present time. Consequently, it confines the greater part of its attention to ensuring that what immigration is permitted shall be of the most approved type and that those newcomers who penetrate the restrictive barriers shall have a reasonable chance of making good.

Upon the premise that rural population is a "sine qua non" so far as Saskatchewan is concerned, and upon decisions reached after a thorough study of the 52 volumes of evidence collected in the examination of 476 witnesses at forty sittings, one of which was held extra-provincially (at Winnipeg), and of a mass of pertinent data, the Commission bases a series of correlated recommendations creating a complete mechanism for the control of immigration and the regulation of settlement. Personnel of the Commission which began its work, January 30, 1930, and closed its public sessions, June 3, was: Prof. W. W. Swanson, chairman; P. H. Shelton, vice-chairman; T. Johnston, G. C. Neff and A. R. Reusch.

The Commission's recommendations are submitted under five headings: A—The Machinery of Control; B—Immigration Agencies and Their Licensing; C—Classes of Immigrants in a Broad Order of Preference; D—Methods of Land Settlement and After-Care; and E—General Recommendations dealing with matters germane to the subject studied and designed to promote the development of the land and other resources of the province.

Saskatchewan being an agricultural province, the recommendations deal essentially and predominantly with agriculture and land settlement and, in the wording of the report, "attempt to lay down certain principles of control, intended to provide for the maximum freedom of immigration, limited by the legitimate desire of the people of this province to maintain a general standard of living satisfactory to their ambitions."

The Commission makes no recommendation with respect to a quota law. Definite prohibitions are recommended, however, with respect to single agricultural workers and members of non-agricultural groups, save and except they have sufficient capital (estimated as from $1,000 to $5,000) to establish themselves either in agriculture or industry. The restrictions do not apply in the case of British migrants, and trained specialists "required in the establishment of industrial enterprises or technical institutes in the province," can come in without let and hindrance.

The Commission rules definitely against state-aided immigration with certain noted exceptions in the case of the settling of Saskatchewan residents on public lands, the repatriation of Canadians now domiciled in the United States, and of British immigrants, more particularly British school boys.

Among the safeguards, the Commission advocates a head tax to provide an insurance fund against indigency, and the provision of guarantees by licensed immigration agencies that settlers brought in by them shall not become a public charge within five years.

An alternative is suggested to homesteading which, the Commission recommends, should be discontinued.

Conferences Suggested

Declaring it obvious that "no provincial control of immigration is practicable except as it coincides with the policies adopted by the Dominion Government, which in turn must base these policies on the desires and needs of the nine provinces of the Confederation," the Commission recommends: "That an effort be made to call a conference between the representatives of the Government of Canada and of all the provinces, in the hope that from such a meeting might arise uniformity of opinion concerning an immigration and settlement policy." The Commission suggests that its report be submitted to that conference as the Saskatchewan Government's recommendations on the subject. Further, it is suggested that the proposed conference follow that of which intimation has been given between the Government of Canada and the Governments of the three Prairie Provinces on immigration matters.

The Commission also recommends that its report be submitted to a conference of representatives of the Provincial Departments of Natural Resources, Agriculture and Labor, the College of Agriculture, organized farmers and other interested bodies, invited representatives of the Federal Departments of Immigration and Agriculture, and the persons or corporations desiring to obtain licenses as immigration and colonization agents. It is suggested that this conference be held "at once," in order to deal with the details of immigration and settlement regulations envisaged in the report and to enable prospective licensees to adjust their plans in conformity with the expressed wishes of the Saskatchewan Government, pending the passage of enabling legislation where such is necessary.

Federal Advisory Board

Realizing that co-operation is essential between the provincial and Federal Governments to make controlled immigration effective, the Commission suggests the establishment of a Federal Board to meet from time to time to consider and recommend policies of immigration and settlement. This Board, it is suggested, should be representative of every province of Canada, each provincial representative being empowered to state the numbers and classes of immigrants required by his particular province.

Under the Commission's plan, primary control of all immigration activities of the province would be vested in the Minister of Immigration and Natural Resources, with a Provincial Council consisting of the Deputy Ministers of Natural Resources, Agriculture and Labor to control the flow of immigration and settlement in conjunction with the provincial representative on the Federal Board.

With provision thus made for determining the demand and limiting the flow, the Commission then recommends that, for purposes of supply and consistent with its avowed desire to encourage British immigration, a Saskatchewan Bureau should be established in London, England, with a representative of the Provincial Council in charge. This Bureau would handle all matters of immigration affecting the province so far as they can be supervised in London, and would also co-operate with other governmental representatives in matters affecting trade and commerce.

Affirming that "in many cases errors in past immigration policy have caused an influx of settlers not only not able to bear their share of public and social services, but who have become a charge on the public funds," the Commission states: "the cure for that, however, is, in our opinion, not to insist on a complete cessation of immigration, but on safeguards intended to provide that only as many settlers shall be admitted, only of such type, and only on such conditions, that our rural populations shall continue to expand, but only by the addition of those who may be expected rapidly to assume their share in the upkeep of social and public services."

The Commission, therefore, in the very limited immigration permitted under its recommendations, advocates a definite preferential sequence in relation to provincial immigration activities. It recommends that first efforts should be made to provide for the settlement on the land of persons now resident in Saskatchewan. Next, it suggests that the Dominion Government should aid, to the extent of one-half of their transportation expenses to Canada, in the repatriation of Canadians now resident in the United States to the several provinces from which they emigrated. Then, it recommends that every encouragement should be given to British immigration and that the British Government be invited to assist in devising schemes for such a movement and in providing financial aid for carrying them out. As stated previously, state aid with the noted exceptions, is frowned upon.

British Immigration

With reference to immigration of settlers from Great Britain, the Commission states: "We feel that no obstacle should be placed in the way of their free entry into the province, but that care should be taken, on the contrary, to extend to them such support as will aid them to achieve permanent success. It is, in our opinion, much to be desired that steps be taken to fit many more British-born to enter into our national life. We admit the apparent failure of some of the schemes so far tried for this conversion of city-bred people of Britain into capable Canadian farmers, but refuse to accept this as final. To take an excellent comparison, it is admitted that the plan of training men in Britain as farmers or farm laborers has not been successful, while, on the other hand, the method of assisted settlement known as the Three-Thousand Family Scheme, has in general been satisfactory, and has added a desirable group of settlers to our community."

While stating definitely that no single agricultural workers or members of non-agricultural groups should be admitted at present except on permission of the Provincial Council, the Commission suggests a specific preference when, in the opinion of the Council, there is room for immigration. First preference, in that event, is given to nominations by established farmers admitted under head tax as insurance against indigency and with proper safeguards as to numbers and treatment. Heads of families may be admitted on the nomination of immigration agencies where the nominee has a minimum of $250 capital upon landing in Saskatchewan, where proper safeguards as to head tax and after-care apply, and where the Provincial Council is satisfied as to actual opportunity for employment and housing. It is further recommended that immigration agencies be permitted to bring in "leasehold or partial payment purchase settlers" on condition that the agency provides the five-year guarantee to which reference already has been made.

Licensing Of Agencies

With regard to the licensing of immigration and colonization agencies, the report states that "there can be no question that the greatest agencies in the settlement of Western Canada in the past have been the two great railway systems and we fully anticipate that this condition will continue." The Commission, however, urges that the greatest care be exercised in the granting of immigration agency licenses and recommends specifically against societies not capable of carrying on actual settlement being permitted to operate as agencies. It states further that "immigration and land settlement as a whole should not be regarded as a proper source of profit for those who might be tempted to exploit the newcomer or to create a class of discontented settlers in the province."

The Commission places a high value on Canadian citizenship in its recommendations with regard to naturalization, the importance of which it stresses. It is urged that the Dominion Government be requested to compel naturalization of immigrants who have resided in Canada for a period of seven years. Education as a factor in the assimilative process comes in for some attention.

Touching on natural resources other than agricultural land, the Commission suggests that lands carrying merchantable timber be withdrawn from settlement and administered as forestry lands. It also favors a policy of afforestation, and urges the Government to consider the provision of better markets for pulpwood in districts where it is available and, if feasible, by the construction of a pulp mill.

The Commission also considered sympathetically, the relation of the mortgage and mortgagee in connection with farm properties where the settler has encountered difficulties. One interesting recommendation, in the wording of the report, follows: "We have also considered the case of the farmer who, being a mortgagee, has had his economic position so impaired by a cycle of bad seasons as to be in danger of losing the fruits of many years of intelligent effort, and we have no hesitation in recommending that he be given security of tenure in such cases, on application to the Government and approved by competent authority, by automatic extension of the terms of his mortgage or other instrument of obligation, and we suggest the provision of statutory power to enable the Government to force this action where necessary in its judgment."

Recommendations In Detail

Complete recommendations of the Commission as incorporated and grouped in the report, follow:

A—Machinery

1. That an advisory Federal Board of Commissioners be created to consider and recommend policies of immigration and settlement, on which will be represented every Province.

2. That primary control of all immigration activities of the Province should be in the hands of the Minister of Immigration and Natural Resources of the Province.

3. That a Provincial Council of Immigration and Land Settlement be created consisting of the Deputy Ministers of the Departments of Natural Resources, Agriculture and Labor, of the Province, to control the flow of immigration and settlement.

4. That a bureau be established, representative of this Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement, in London, England, to deal with all matters of immigration affecting this Province, as far as they can be supervised in London, and to co-operate with other Government representatives on matters affecting our trade and commerce.

5. That all matters affecting after care of immigrants settled on the land should be in the hands of the Minister of Agriculture of the Province, and that after care of non-agricultural immigrants should be in the hands of the Minister of Labour of the Province, acting upon information placed at their disposal by the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement.

6. That it should be agreed that the representative of this Province on the proposed Federal Board of Commissioners should be empowered to state the numbers and classes of immigrants required by the Province.

7. That all Leases, Agreements of Sale, or Mortgages affecting land in transactions between a licensed immigration and colonization agency and a settler should be filed with and approved by the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement, and a suitable fee imposed.

B—Immigration Agencies

1. That any person, corporation or society desiring to engage in business as an immigration and colonization agency shall: (1) obtain a license to that effect from the Dominion Government; and (2) before being allowed to operate in Saskatchewan, shall obtain a Provincial license which shall impose upon such person, corporation or society, the obligation to submit all its activities in connection with land settlement to the supervision of the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement.

2. That no licenses should be granted to any person, corporation or society, except those who, in the opinion of the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement, are capable of entering on actual programs of settlement.

C—Classes Of Immigrants

1. That first efforts should be given to provide for the settlement on the land of persons now resident in this Province.

2. That no special measures are necessary to stimulate immigration to Saskatchewan of Canadians from other provinces.

3. That the Dominion Government should aid, to the extent of one half of their transportation expenses to Canada, in the repatriation of Canadians now resident in the United States, to the several provinces from which they migrated.

4. That every encouragement should be given to British immigration and that the British Government should be invited to assist in devising schemes for such a movement and in providing financial aid for carrying them out. We specially recommend assisted immigration of British school boys of school leaving age and over, under proper safeguards.

5. That with the exception of grants made by the British Government for the assistance of British settlers, grants made by the Dominion Government for the repatriation of Canadians, or grants made by the Province to assist in the settling of residents of the Province on public lands, and for Boy settlements schemes, no governmental financial aid to settlement be granted.

6. The Commission makes no recommendation with respect to a quota law.

7. That no single agricultural workers be admitted at present.

8. That domestics be admitted under proper control by the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement, and that measures be taken to encourage the reuniting of families.

9. That when, in the opinion of the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement, there is room for immigration, preference should be given with proper safeguards as to numbers and treatment; first to nominations by established farmers and that immigrants should be charged a head tax intended to provide insurance against indigency, which, however, need not be applied in the case of British immigrants if after negotiations, the British Government prefers to contribute to this insurance on a basis proportionately to the contributions from other nationals, obtained through the head tax.

10. That heads of families may be admitted on the nomination of immigration agencies where the nominee has a minimum capital of $250.00 upon landing in Saskatchewan, the proper safeguards as to head tax and after care applying; these nominations should only be permitted where the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement is satisfied as to actual opportunity for employment and housing.

11. That immigration agencies shall be permitted to bring in leasehold or partial payment purchase settlers as hereinafter provided on condition that the agency provide sufficient guarantees that the settler shall not become a public charge within a period of five years after admission. Such settlers should only be admitted for location in areas and on terms approved by the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement. This is particularly desirable as a means of directing a flow of immigration from Great Britain.

12. That any immigrant, married or unmarried, having the necessary capital to establish himself in agriculture or industry, may freely enter the Province for the purpose of taking up land, or to establish himself in business.

13. That no other person be permitted to enter except by specific permission of the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement through this Province's representative on the Federal Board of Commissioners.

14. That where the foregoing regulations restrict the free movement of immigration to the Province they shall not be enforced against British migrants.

D—Methods Of Land Settlement and After Care

1. That a complete soil and economic survey of the Province be made, and that the conclusions arising from it, be used as a basis for future settlement policies and that all existing cases of location of settlers on unsuitable lands be brought to the attention of the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement, and to land owning corporations in cases concerning them.

2. That this survey be applied first to the remaining Crown lands and to areas where it is believed that settlement has taken place on unsuitable land.

3. That immigration and colonization agencies be permitted to sell farms to immigrants in areas, in units and on terms only as approved by the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement.

4. That immigration and colonization agencies be permitted to lease farms for not less than ten years to immigrants in areas, in units, and on terms, only as approved by the Provincial Council of Immigration and Settlement.

5. That homesteading be discontinued and that the remaining Crown lands where immediately available for agriculture be sold (a) to residents of the Province; (b) to other Canadians; (c) to British settlers; (d) to other immigrants.

6. That the Government investigate the use of the lease method of disposing of Crown lands with a view to testing it.

7. That Crown lands found suitable for settlement but which require clearing, be cleared under Government auspices, and the cost of this included in the sale or lease price of such lands.

8. That land not suitable for agriculture but useful for ranching be leased for this purpose.

9. That blocks of land suitable for agriculture located in ranching areas be included in the ranching leases.

10. That efforts be made to transfer settlers now on lands unsuited for agriculture, or included in areas suited for ranching, to more suitable locations, under a system of government expropriation and compensation in respect to the latter.

11. That immigration agencies, railways, land and mortgage companies be invited to apply similar correction in the case of settlers located on lands leased or sold on partial payment terms by them.

12. That immigration agencies, railways, land and mortgage companies be invited to consider the transfer of settlers from land ownership to long term lease where experience has shown that the settler is not making reasonable progress.

13. That where a cycle of bad seasons has impaired the economic position of a farmer who is a mortgagee, he be given security of tenure by the automatic extension of the terms of his mortgage or other instrument of obligation.

14. We recommend to the Government consideration of schemes for the assistance of residents of Saskatchewan to settle on the lands of the Province.

E—General Recommendations

1. That the Dominion Government be requested to compel naturalization of immigrants who have resided in the Dominion for a period of seven years.

2. That all immigrants landing in Canada take oath to obey the laws of the country and that within a period of six months they should make application signifying their intention of becoming citizens.

3. That lands carrying merchantable growth of timber be withdrawn from settlement and administered as forestry lands.

4. That in view of the outstanding importance of taking full advantage of the gifts and capacities of newcomers as a contribution to our common life, special efforts should be made through the Department of Education and other public bodies to approach the question of assimilation in the most sympathetic attitude in order to win the confidence and co-operation of incoming settlers.

5. That the Government consider the rendering of assistance to the new settlers and others in establishing themselves: (a) by increasing the agricultural representative service and (b) by inducing experienced farmers to establish themselves in immigrant communities.

6. That unemployment relief as it becomes necessary should as far as possible, be obtained by the use of unemployed labour in opening land to settlement or otherwise developing our natural resources.

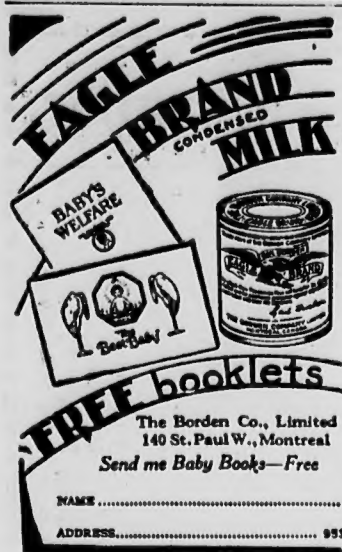

7. That the Saskatchewan Farm Loans Act be amended to permit progress loans to farmers engaged in clearing and breaking of land, through the establishment of a separate department.

8. That the Government consider the provision of better markets for pulpwood in districts where this product is available; if feasible, by the construction of a pulp mill.

"No," said Charmian, as seriously as a little girl would answer the important question of some elder, "I'm doing it to get the man. I'd marry him, Grandma, if we had to live in one of those old freight cars on the siding. I've been a long time knowing my own heart. I don't wonder you doubt me. I shouldn't blame Jim for doubting either; but— I'm not cheating him, Grandma. I'm giving him—everything I have to give."

Jim cleared his throat, and asked, to save Grandma from the tears he knew were imminent: "Have you forgotten my reputation as a shrewd business man? Why, Grandma Davis! I'm swapping myself for a wife, a house, and a grandmother—and you ask if I'm getting the bad end of a bargain, I'm surprised!"

The words were light, but his husky voice betrayed him; and in another moment he raised Charmian to her feet and kissed her, a kiss that said far more than words to the old lady who gazed up at them.

"Well!" she declared, drawing a deep breath of happiness, "I don't think I was ever so glad but twice before—the day Father told me he loved me, and the night they put my baby in my arms. I'd borne two others that didn't live, you know, and I just couldn't believe that this one was all right. And he grew up to be Charmian's father! Come here, children, and kiss me, both of you. I feel sort of like singing or saying my prayers. I don't know which."

There followed a joyful dinner. John Carter stopped in as they were sitting

DO YOU SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION?

Countless remedies are advertised for constipation. Many relieve for the moment but they are habit forming and must be continued. Others contain calomel and dangerous mineral drugs, which remain in the system, settle in the joints and cause aches and pains. Some are harsh purgatives which cramp and gripe and leave a depressed after effect. Avoid lubricating oils which only grease the intestines and encourage nature's machinery to become lazy.

A purely vegetable laxative such as Carter's Little Liver Pills, gently touches the liver, bile starts to flow, the bowels move gently, the intestines are thoroughly cleansed and constipation poisons pass away. The stomach, liver and bowels are now active and the system enjoys a real tonic effect. All druggists 25c and 75c red pkgs.

ting down, and Charmian insisted that he stay. She told him the good news and he kissed her again, "right under Jimmy's nose," as Grandma said, but without the devastating effects of the day before.

It was the doctor who helped the old lady back to her chair by the window, and who, when she spoke of his own happiness, said quietly: "Will you forgive me for not telling you before? You see, Grandma, it was all so horribly uncertain. If it hadn't been for Charmian I believe I'd have blown up! She was a trump to let me use her as a safety valve, and I'll never forget it. If she and my best girl aren't bosom friends at sight it will break my heart. But they will be. I'm sure of it; and now Jim Bennett knows I'm not a danger-point there ought to be some happy days ahead—for all of us."

Grandma chuckled. "Well, sonny, if I'd been Charmian you would have been a danger-point, so I can't blame Jim for seeing you through green eyes. There've been times when I've been all mixed up in my mind wondering which of you I wanted for a grandson. I've even wished that Charmian was a sort of female Brigham Young, so she could marry both of you!"

Later, while she dozed peacefully in her chair, Grandma was conscious at intervals that Charmian and Jim were ransacking the house, "planning what they'll do to it most likely," she mused happily, and dozed again. Not till she was rested and ready for whatever the afternoon might have in store for her, did they go out to send some telegrams and call on Aunt Salina and the Merrys.

"I going to send a message to my mother, and one to Aunt Sophie at the same time," announced Jim, grinning. "I'd give a dollar to see their faces when those telegrams arrive, and if Charmian wishes to spread the glad tidings further—"

"Look here," Grandma reproved him, "you musn't start in being extravagant the first thing."

Jim laughed at her fears. "What are a few telegrams at a time like this?" he replied magnificently. "Let me be reckless, Grandma, before I settle down into the state of matrimony," and Grandma couldn't suppress a smile.

"Can I tell Lizzie Baker if she drops in?" she asked as they were leaving.

"You may tell the world!" responded Jim with pride; and by the aid of the old mirror Grandma saw him kiss his Charmian again.

She drew close to the window then, watching them go down the street, and wondering a bit why they stopped so long looking at the law office where she had expected to end her days. She could not hear Charmian say whimsically: "I shan't live in you after all, little house. Are you sorry, I wonder?"

"It ought to be heartbroken," said Jim.

"It would make a beautiful playhouse," said Charmian. "I always thought it should be a playhouse."

"With Towser and Mouser to guard the door it would be a peach of a playhouse," agreed Jim. "Uncle George suggested that we sell it and have it moved away; but I guess we'll hold onto it—for future use!"

"Oh, Jim!" breathed Charmian, and squeezed his hand in the face and eyes of Lizzie Baker who was hanging a pair of stockings on the line.

Indeed, something in the attitude of the young people so aroused Miss Lizzie's curiosity that she dropped in on Grandma almost immediately, forgetting to take a measuring cup for the molasses she wished to borrow.

"Dear me suz!" she exclaimed when Grandma divulged the news. "I knew the minute I laid eyes on 'em that something was in the air. You tell Charmian that she can count on me to hem all her linen. I wouldn't offer if I didn't know that there's nobody in Wickfield can do it any better if I do say it that shouldn't. And to think that you're going to stay right here! It takes a load off my mind. It would have been more than flesh and blood could bear to see strangers living in the old Davis house, it would so. Dear me suz! there goes Luella and the deacon. Maybe they've made it up again. Do you mind if I run 'round and tell the Merrys? I dunno any one in town that'll be gladder about everything than them."

Only one other caller had appeared and that was the Merrys' Gypsy, who walked in the screen door that Miss Lizzie had carelessly left open, and deposited a dilapidated shoe at Grandma's feet, "for all the world,"

"THEY WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP"

chuckled the old lady, "as if he knew we were going to have a wedding! I always said that Gypsy was a smart dog."

Now it was twilight, and a peaceful silence pervaded the old house. Main Street had grown quiet, and soon the neighbors would be going home after the day's work. What hadn't she seen from this window? Grandma was thinking. She closed her eyes, visualizing the pageantry of life that had passed before her: Babies carried proudly by on their way to christening. . . . Older babies trudging sturdily to school on frosty mornings. . . . Neighbors going about their daily tasks, yet stopped to wave a greeting as they passed. . . . Young lovers strolling beneath the elms in enchanted moonlight; and friends like the old doctor borne tenderly to their resting places on a green hillside. . . . Life! . . . That was what Grandma had seen from her shop window.

"Dear Lord, I thank Thee that I have lived to see this day," she murmured. And after a silence: "I was foolish to worry. Here I've been all stirred up thinking we'd got to leave the house where Father brought me as a bride—fretting about Charmian—wondering what she'd do when my call came and she'd be left alone. And then, right out of a clear sky, everything's all right! Charmian's babies will be born where she was born, and her father and grandfather before her. . . . And I needn't worry about leaving her when I 'cross the bar'—not with Jimmy to dry her tears. Come to think of it, I ought to be ashamed to have had such doubts in a world where things mostly come out right. Why, I've been so down-hearted it didn't seem hardly worth the trouble to live at all, except for Charmian; but now—" Grandma smiled happily at the thought, "now I declare I want to live enough longer so when I meet Father in Kingdom Come, I can tell him I've held our great-grandchild in my arms!"

THE END.

Little Helps For This Week

"Then shall we know, if we follow on to know the Lord."—Hosea vi. 3.

The task Thy wisdom hath assigned, Oh, let me cheerfully fulfill! In all my works Thy presence find, And prove Thy acceptable will.

—Charles Wesley.

Let us remember that we are here each day to do each day's duty with our whole mind, heart, soul, and strength. Let us live in the whole, not in the half. Then, when we go inward to reflect, we put ourselves wholly in that and find God's love and truth within the soul; and when we go outward to work or to social intercourse, we put ourselves wholly in that, and find God's presence and inspiration also there. So the inward world and the outward world may be equally filled and animated with the presence and the smile of our Heavenly Father.

Danger From Old Tires

Many Serious Accidents Have Happened When Blowout Occurs

The worst danger from old tires is from blowouts while we are travelling at a high rate of speed. Old tires blow out more quickly in hot weather at high rates of speed, for the reason that the heat softens the hold of the thinned fabric and by heating the air inside the tire increases the pressure. Given certain conditions a blown tire will turn a car over and cause serious injury and possibly death to occupants. Then there is the danger of losing control because treads are worn down. On a wet road a car with tires whose treads are badly worn is seldom under control at usual speeds. Skidding is not the only danger. Sliding forward with all brakes set is a common accident.

Wool Warehouses Remain Open

Arrangements Made For Benefit Of Saskatchewan Sheep Men

In order to accommodate Saskatchewan sheep men who have been delayed in the shipment of 1930 wool because of the early harvest this year, the wool warehouses at Regina and Portage la Prairie will remain open until November 1st, according to announcement by W. W. Thompson, manager of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Association in Western Canada. Ordinarily the warehouses would close August 31st.

The Oil For the Farmer.—A bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil in the farm house will save many a journey for the doctor. It is not only good for the children when taken with colds and croup, and for the mature who suffer from pains and aches, but there are directions for its use on sick cattle. There should always be a bottle of it in the house.

Bright Future For Gliders

Gliding from block to block to visit neighbors will be a popular form of transportation, replacing short automobile trips within 10 years, according to Howard Flanders, former secretary of the British Gliding Association. He predicts that gliders will be as common then as the very popular motorcycle is now in England.

Record Of World's Shipping

The new 1930-1931 edition of Lloyd's Register of Shipping includes a full record of about 83,000 steamers, motorships and sailing vessels of 100 gross tons and over that are owned by the various maritime nations of the world.

A centenarian of Glasgow attributes his great age to the fact that for the first 70 years of his life there were no motor cars and for the last 30 he has been confined to the house.

BACKACHE

Wonderful relief from pain

Backache is one of those wearying complaints which bind all their victims together with a common bond of misery. And when any one suffers from backache finds a sure remedy, fellowship prompts the quick report of that discovery to others. Here's a woman who has her friend to thank for knowledge of a remarkably successful treatment. Now gratitude compels her, in turn, to pass along the good news to you.

"I am writing to tell you of the great benefit I have received from Kruschen Salts. My friend, Mrs. H., had received so much benefit that she begged me to give Kruschen a trial, although at first I was doubtful, because I had tried so many things. At last, however, I tried some of her Kruschen, and, feeling hopeful, I purchased a bottle, and I can honestly say that before I had finished the bottle my backache was gone. I have suffered for years with kidney trouble and dreadful headaches, and now to be free from the pain altogether is wonderful."—(Mrs. C.)

Restless CHILDREN

CHILDREN will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as its tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than a more powerful medicine.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is need. In cases of colic, diarrhea or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. A coated tongue calls for just a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed.

Chautauqua Here, On October 28, 29, 30, 31

The Canadian Chautauqua Festival which opens in Didsbury on October 28th, is bringing to you, one of the most varied, interesting, entertaining, and inspiring programs, that has yet had an opportunity of touring the west. These attractive entertainments are simply flooded with talent, artistry, pleasure, and fun. The festival will be opened with the Broadway comedy success,
"Turn to the Right," produced by the Martin Erwin Players. The play deals with real life, and the many crucial situations are alarmingly interspersed with comedy and romance. The play grips and holds you, until it draws to its happy, and humorous conclusion.

On the second afternoon and evening, the Lowell Patton Artists bring distinctive musical programs of notable interest. Lowell Patton, pianist, composer, interpreter of life and moods, holds an outstanding place in the concert field. His programs are so varied, artistic, and unusual, that they appeal not only to the genuine music-lover, but to the more popular-minded as well.
Fenwick Newell, the well-known Canadian tenor, has returned to Canadian platforms, after having definitely established his name and reputation abroad. Gloria Robinson, a CKY radio contralto soloist, sings to your hearts, and brings to you, a collection of the best-loved selections. The program is distinctive, attractive, and entertaining, it brings a freshness of material and a variety of selection, which is sure to please the most critical.

The third day brings something entirely new, "The Elias Tamburitza Serenaders." Strange, and colorful costumes, new, symphonic, native instruments, and a flood of song and melody. These Jugo-Slavian serenaders carry you thrillingly and excitedly through a selection of native songs, dances, and folk-lore, emphasizing the artistry and splen-dour of their music.

Following a musical prelude given by the Tamburitza Serenaders on the third evening, comes Private Peat. Private Peat is a world-famous figure, one of the outstanding personalities that came out of the Great War. He knows war, its horrors, its stupidity, its cruelty.
He believes, that if the children of today were given the true pictures of war, the world would become peace-minded in the future. Wars will continue, as long as war exists in the heart of man, is the creed of Private Peat. Private Peat has lectured throughout New Zealand, Australia, the United States, and Canada. He is perhaps, more in demand today than any other speaker on the lecture-platform. Both in his books, which have been exceptionally popular, and upon the platform, he presents his ideas with clearcut directness, and with a vividness that is tremendously convincing. "His talk was full of sound sense," says the Toronto Star. "And the many telling points were interspersed with much humor.
He was listened to with much interest, and at the conclusion of his lecture, was accorded long applause."
"Mr. Peat has that indefinable thing, called personality. His talk was

For the closing program, on the fourth evening, is one of the wittiest, most interesting, and entertaining comedies produced in the last decade, Barry Connor's popular comedy,
"The Patsy," presented by the Martin Erwin Players. Sparkling dialogue, involved situations, and appealing romance mark this unusual and charming play.

Large Increases In Ringneck Pheasants

Pheasant-stocking by the different Fish & Game Associations in Alberta has been a pronounced success, according to reports.

Last year, it was estimated that the natural increase was not less than 400 per cent., probably more.
This year, the increase, according to reports, is quite as large.

As about 3,000 birds were liberated, and possibly as many more were subsequently hatched from eggs that were imported, it is figured that altogether, about 5,000 pheasants were released in the Calgary territory, and approximately, a quarter as many, at other points in Alberta.

With the natural increase, it is estimated that at least, 15,000 pheasants, including, perhaps, 1,200 Mongolians, are now roaming thro' the natural coverts in this province.

Just when shooting will be permitted, will depend upon future developments. Ultimately, some of the cock-birds will have to be shot off, but there is no hurry about this, and it is expected that no action will be taken until a thorough survey of the situation has been made.

11 Years' Constipation Glycerin Mix Ends It

"For 11 years I tried to get rid of constipation," says Chas. E. Blair.
"Then at last the simple mixture, Adlerika, made me regular."
The simple mixture of glycerin, blackthorn bark, saline, etc., (Adler-ika) acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, relieving constipation in 2 hours! Brings out poisons you never thought were in your system. Let Adlerika give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleaning and see how good you feel!
